

BE PREPARED

Steiner Electric Company is always prepared.

Many of us are familiar with the Boy Scouts – a worldwide organization of young men and boys, created for character development and citizenship training. With sound training for the future, Boy Scouts are ever mindful of their motto: “Be Prepared.”

That is what we all must be - Prepared - for any eventuality.

Recently, the Steiner Lighting Application Group received a request to visit a site for a single specific lighting problem. However, as Steiner representatives were going through the building they saw many more concerns, which they called to the attention of the facility manager and the electrical contractor.

In addressing these issues we needed to use every single piece of equipment in the picture to the right.

As we approached the separate issues, we found we had the resources to address each concern right then and there - including a quick energy audit that we had emailed.

The contractor was amazed:

“I knew Steiner was good, but never would I have believed that for my lighting there would be so much equipment needed - from now on you guys get all my lighting needs.”

This was all possible because Steiner Electric was prepared.

With natural disasters, power outages, new laws and regulations and all the continued risk we face each day, one must always be prepared. Steiner Electric leads the way with both products and services to help serve you no matter what life brings your way.

STEINER[®]

www.steinerelectric.com

Click here to request an energy audit

For more information or to talk to a representative, please call our Lighting Applications Group at (847)-228-0400